Battle lines showing the progress of armed forces are well known to those who follow the war maps. But here is the "battle-line of the B-29's," showing the Tokyo-Yokohama target area, which has been so devastated by Synarfortresser so devastated by Superfortresses that both cities have been "eliminated as primary objectives" of strategic air power.

(From the Office of Owen Brewster, USS)

WHY CONGRESS GOES HOME
This week the House with the consent of the Senate entered on a summer recess extending to October 1st.

Meanwhile, the Senate takes up the San Francisco Charter which is its exclusive responsibility so far as Congress is concerned and expects to give overwhelming approval within the next few days. It is not generally expected that there will be over ten votes against the Charter if there are that many. The Senate will then follow the House into a recess period.

GLOBAL PACTS:

Senate Acts Even while President Truman conferred with Prime Minister Churchill and Marshal Stalin at the historic meeting in Berlin, the senate acted on vital measures designed to assure the security of the new world and also to establish a strong economic foundation. Foremost, of course, was the United Nations security charter, drawn up by 800 delegates from 50 countries at the palatial San Francisco opera house. Less popular in appeal, but equally important in scope, were the Bretton Woods monetary agreements creating resources for trade and reconstruction, and the increase in lending powers of the Export-Import bank to stimulate commerce before the Bretton Woods pacts can be implemented.

Overwhelmingly approved by the senate foreign relations committee after five days of public hearings, the security charter was sent to the upper chamber for ratification with the committee's declaration that though the new organization cannot prevent war, it will develop the basis for international collaboration necessary for peaceful settlement of

RAIL RATES: Protest Revision

Declaring that the Interstate Commerce Commission's order increasing railroad class freight rates 10 per cent in the East and reducing them a like amount in the South and West was unsupported by evidence that previous tariffs were unequal and unlawful, 10 northeastern states petitioned the ICC to reconsider its action.

Applying only to so-called class rates on articles on which volume is not sufficient to command a com modity tariff, the new rates effective August 30 are designed to eliminate freight differences working to the advantage of the highly industrialized East. Only 10 per cent of all freight moves under class rates, however, and southern interests seeking parity declare that the ICC's action is but the first step in an equalization program.

While the 10 northeastern states fought the revision of class rates, five southwestern states declared it non-preferential and non-prejudicial" tariffs. The states requested minor alterations to the order.

Frauleins Reserved

Despite the army's let-up against association with German civilians, G.I.s are not being swamped by curvacious frauleins. Children continue to cluster around friendly Yanks, however, and play up for a share of their rations. Having swept the mademoiselles of their feet in France and Belgium, the G.I.s have found the German belles less skittish. For one thing, return of many German soldiers has provided the more comely misses with escorts, while the open hostility of civilians toward women fraternizing with the Americans in certain sections also has tended to restrict relations.

Lifting of the ban against association with German civilians followed repeated complaints that it would never work in view of the American disposition for striking up friendships. The Russians had never enforced such a ban in their occupation zone, presumably to unsell the civilians on their fear of the Reds.

MEAT STORAGE:

Supplies Up

Despite the fact that the 635,998, 000 pounds of meat supplies in cold storage on July 1 were at the highest level since last September, civilians were not expected to benefit because a large percentage of the stocks are earmarked for the army.
Supplies of other foods were spotty, with butter holdings abnormally heavy and stocks of frozen and shell eggs up, while dried egg and poultry inventories were down.

Beef registered the largest gain in meat supplies, standing at 261,373,-000 pounds, with pork also showing an increase at 330,524,000 pounds. Lamb and mutton stocks were up to 17,903,000 pounds and lard 62,430,-000 pounds. As of the first of the month, public warehouse freezer occupancy stood at 73 per cent of capacity, with gains in canned fruits and vegetables, fish, cheese, shell eggs and sausage largely offset by a heavy outmovement of apples, pears, dried eggs and canned meat.

REPARATIONS:

Allied Plan

German payment of reparations from available resources to avoid the rebuilding of the reich's economy to meet foreign claims, as was the case following World War I, was recommended by the Allied reparations committee sitting in Moscow.

Following the pattern of the U.S. plan, the commission's proposal calls for the distribution of potential German war-making equipment to claimant countries, and German production of reparations material from existing facilities. No funds would be advanced for reconstruction of transport or industry that could be integrated into a military economy.

In line with its plan, the commission also declared that claims against Germany should be taken from the country's existing wealth, such as stocks, foreign investments, machines and supplies.

Shortly trainmen, electricians, carpenters thereafter all mention of such an apparatus stopped and the dark and mysterious career of radar began. Radar and television are not the same thing, but there are similarities and if we can believe that actors in a studio in the RCA building in New York can be seen out in Westchester county by people sitting around a television set, we can believe that another little gadget can register the presence and location of a distant object (like a plane or a warship) and, if it is moving, tell which way it is going and how

On a winter day, I sat in a room at the Willard hotel in Washington, London was trembling under the terror of night bombing. Sitting at a table before us was an officer of the Royal air force. After a few general remarks, he made what was to us an astounding statement; namey, that defense against daytime bombing had been perfected and a method of ending the effectiveness of night attack would soon be in operation.

The tide had been turned in the battle of Britain and, though we didn't know it then, radar had done that, too. Between these two events was an-

ROAD OF GERMANS WILL BE A LONG AND HARD ONE

Germany is today not a nation. It is but a disorganized mass of some 70,000,000 humans. It is without law, other than the orders and edicts of Allied military commanders; without law enforcement, other than that of the G.I. Joes of the Allied armies; without courts, other than those presided over by military officers directly or indirectly.

Such is today, but what of tomorrow, of next year and other years of the future?

Four armies, representing nations of radically differing ideologies, occupy the four sections of Germany into which she has been divided. The only announced purpose of the four nations is that of stamping out the last vestige of Naziism. Presumably each army will use its own methods of accomplishing that purpose. Presumably each army will introduce the ideologies of the nation it represents in the making over of the German people. What the final result will be, or when that result will be accomplished, can be only a guess.

A phenomena of the situation is the request of the German communists, that element of the German people who suffered most from the wrath of Titler, and who would be expecied to accept Russian ideologies. They ask for the establishment of a private enterprise system with a profit motive. That is American democracy, not Russian communism. Will they get that in the Russian-occupied zone? Time, only, can answer. Today the commanders of those Allied armies trust practically no German in Germany. There are none to whom they are willing to pass uncontrolled civilian authority. How many months or years will pass before those G.I. Joes can be relieved of their police posts? How long before those army orders give way to laws enacted by the German people? How long before those Allied officers are replaced by civilian judges? Again time, only, can answer.

For Germany the road to the future will be long and hard: It means a re-education of the people, starting particularly with the small children. It means the implanting of new ideals, the creation of a desire for a different way of life. It means the obliteration of the "might makes right" theory, that has been a basic principle of Germany.

With four different types of teachers, with a curriculum fixed by four differing ideologies, can a unified Germany be the final result? Time, only, can answer. In the meantime, the G.I. Joes of four nations will continue as the corner policeman.

HIGH U. S. STANDARD OF LIVING BENEFITS WORLD

TO MAINTAIN our American standard of living and increase that standard as much as possible is the greatest service this country can render the peoples of the world. We have established standards to which other nations can, and do, aspire. Our standard of living is based on the income of our farmers and the wage scale paid to our workers. To force the American farmer and the American worker into competition in our home markets, which represent 50 per cent of the markets of the world, with the income and wages of the low standard nations would mean lowering the income of our farmers and the wage scales of our workers. It would reduce America's buying power, and, in the end, result in lowering our standards without helping any other nation.

Our greater technical skill and better machinery will not offset the cheap wages of the Orient and most European countries. The world needs a standard to strive for and America sets that standard,

"WHAT IS your farm worth?" asked an Iowa farmer acquaintance. "That depends on what you place value," he replied. "As an investment on which to pay dividends, year in and year out, it is worth a lot less than I could sell it for right now. As a home for myself and family; as representing a way of life we enjoy, it is worth far more than any one would offer, and it is not on the market." That farmer knew idealistic values, and his farm paid dividends on such values to himself and his family. To them the pleasure of living, as they wish to live, has a greater value than dollars.

MANY A CASE of disposition is diagnosed as nerves.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN was right in saying the representing of America in the council of UNCIO was the most important post of American appointive offices. As that representalive, the Hon, Edward R. Stettinius becomes the voice of the nation in world affairs, second only to the President, It is a high honor that carries with it a great responsibility.

THE BEST INTERESTS of many a community would be served by a revival of the old Massachusetts ducking stool for town gossips,

Paying Parliament

How would you like to be elected to the board of governors of the finest country club you ever saw? Unless you are an exceptional person, you can't afford such a job. It uses a lot of time and there's no salary connected with it. Helping to boss a lovely palace in the middle of a big playground is fun (I imagine) but it's an expensive pas-

People who habit such spots to enjoy their spare time are in the financial upper brackets. If they work at all, they do things they enjoy doing, or perhaps they do a few jobs nobody else can do as well. Such wealthy people are usually competent but they engage others to handle their routine work. This leisurely class is growing steadily smaller, but it still exists. Work Well Done

A rich country club is proverbally well managed. It does not need to economize and cut corners, but that's only part of the story. It is governed by men of singular ability with spare time, who like their club and take personal interest in it. They have no better minds than men who hustle for business and use their wives for stenographers, but excellence thrives on calm deliber-

By the way, Mrs. Harry S. Truman used to serve her husband as secretary when he was senator from Missouri. The President told it himthe press while he was dis cussing the proposal to allow additional expense pay to representatives. It would be hard to find stronger testimony that members of the Congress of the United States need better compensation for the work they do.

No Time to Think In every practical sense, mem-bers of Congress have been elected to the board of governors of the world's grandest country - not a country club. They represent important segments of people who have chosen them to help boss (not a playground) the most influential $10,000 a year - the pay of a junior executive. One of America's ugliest habits is criticizing Congress for shortcomings that result directly from being poorly paid. No one man can study all the profound issues congressmen must vote on, and no $10,000 man can afford to pay experts to digest them. Often congressmen use precious hours doing chores for people back home because they can't afford enough competent assistants.

A Good Man's Job Many solons labor intemperately. Rep. Doughton, who is past 81, rises regularly at 5:00 a.m., and starts his 12-hour day at 6:30; this after 34 years in the House and 14 years chairman of the Ways & Means Committee. What $100,000 official of industry claims to be worth more to his firm than Doughton is to his state and nation? American legislators are top-flight, except in pay. Must we send rich men to Congress because poor men lack funds to finance the job, or can't afford to maintain an extra home in wealthy Washington? Do we want incompetents on Capitol Hill who stay there because they could never earn so much anywhere else? The answer is "no" of course; America can afford the best. Then congratulate your congressman on this increase and don't let him wait 20 years for the

BIBLE QUESTIONS ANSWERED BY THE VOICE PROPHECY

Geestion-Don't you think that some tribes or races are so mean that none of them will be saved? Answer-"And they sung a new song, saying, Thou are worthy to power under the shining sun, and, take the book, and to open the until early last June, they got seals thereof: for Thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by Thy blood out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation." Revelation 5:9.

Q.-What does a fellow have to do to go to heaven? A .- "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house." Acts 16:31. "Not every one that saith unto Me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of My Father which is in heaven." Matthew 7:21.

Q.—Since money is the root of all evil, shouldn't Christians refuse to handle It?

A.—It is not money, but the love of money which is said to be the root of all kinds of evil. (1 Timothy 6:10.) Christ's disciples used money as a medium of exchange. (John 13:29; Acts 4:37), and one of His miracles involved money. (Matthew 17:27.)

Q.-Do you think God's people will have regular times for worship in the new-heavens and newearth state?

A.—In reply we read Isalah 66: 22,23: "For as the new heavens and the new earth, which I will make, shall remain before Me, saith the Lord, so shall your seed and your name remain. And it shall recognize and then guard against farm hazards.

There's a definite need for rural safetly as evidenced by the fact that nearly fifty farm persons are killed by accidents every day. This makes an annual toll of more than fifteen thousand deaths.

Farm people in 46 states took fart in observing last year's first National Farm Safety Week. It's reasonable to assume that they contributed materially to the reduction in the general accident toll in 1944. However, accident prevention in the final analysis, is the individuals responsibility. Engaged in one of the nation's major industries the farmer must be his own safety engineer.

How safe is your farm?

URGENT NOTICE

from THE WAR DEPARTMENT . THE NAVY Department . The federal bureau of in-Westigation - The office of censorship

The great amount of military information reaching Japan from this country is a matter of grave concern. Case after case shows that much of this information is obtained from the American public-through careless talk. It is vital that every American understand the problem. You are urged to read and remember the information below.

WHY LOOSE TALK IS DANGEROUS! No loyal American would knowingly give the enemy information. Some of us, however, have thoughtlessly talked too much in the presence of persons who placed the information in channels reaching directly into Tokyo. Hundreds of cases in the records prove that Tokyo does get valuable and necessary facts out of this country. Often the basic information seems innocent and unimportant; but, studied by experts, it reveals important details.

WHO HAS INFORMATION NEEDED BY JAPAN?

Nearly every American has or will learn something the High Command of Japan wants to know. Service personnel inadvertently tell of movements of men and materials. Returning military personnel and merchant seamen often see activities in the various countries and ports which, though appearing inconsequential, thoughtlessly discussed, speak volumes to the enemy. Plant workers may talk out of turn about new weapons still a secret from the enemy. No one should discuss a secret weapon, even though it is known to have been used, until the facts are released officially by the War or Navy Department.

The transfer of troops from Europe to the Pacific is especially interesting to Tokyo. Certain armies or divisions are known for special types of opérations. Any information as to their shift could be an indication of the location of an attack. Cargoes also are frequently revealing as to types of operations. Now that Germany has collapsed, Tokyo is counting heavily on loose talk from this country,

HOW DOES JAPAN GET THE INFORMATION? There are several methods known to be in use. One is by radio outlaw short-wave transmitters which are set up and used briefly, then knocked down and moved before the detectors can find them. Another is through members of crews of neutral ships. Neutral countries have been listening posts for all belligerents. A bit of thoughtless conversation started here and carried to a neutral port could reach Tokyo in a very short time. The air and water crossroads of the world are fertile points of information. Careless conversation passes quickly over the world through these places.

WHAT CAN AN AMERICAN CIVILIAN DO TO HELP?

Don't discuss: (a) Location or movements of men, ships, and materials within, to, or from the Pacific-Asiatic area.

(b) New weapons.

(c) Military information gained in confidence. Don't try to beat censorship by using codes to learn the whereabouts of your serviceman. The rule that he shouldn't disclose his whereabouts is made for his protection. Remember the enemy wants to know more than you do because he wants to kill him. The wise thing is to keep in confidence any specific information learned from servicemen. Don't pass on rumors about military matters—they may have an element of truth which the enemy could spot immediately and put to use against us.

Even though you know the location of your serviceman, here is why you should not mention it to others, unless the location of his unit has been released for publication . . :

The Army and the Navy never release this information until they are certain that it can be of no value to the enemy. Don't trust your own judgment.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

ON'T spoil your life longing for something just because someone else has it. This is a real fault in American women, partly because they have so much, and because their leisure time lets them think about their neighbors.

If life was a little more real for us, if grim necessity more often knocked at our doors, we would be cured of this weakness. The women of the Orient don't know it at all. They drive straight ahead, each one planning and working for the comfort and protection of her own little group, not embittered by the fact that luxury and leisure and all the prettiness of life are denied her for-

But the days of many an American woman are darkened by constant watching and comparing her neighbor's fortunes to her own. She doesn't appreciate at all what she has-all that matters is that the prowns have more.

For example, I once knew woman named Sally. She was healthy, beloved, a happy wife and mother. I met her when she had her three small children at the seaside. She and I had rented neighboring cottages for a fortnight's vacation, We were within a block of the shore and all the wild delights of childhood - merry - go - rounds, dodgeems, popcorn, slides, whirls, museums and sandy beach-were close at hand. Nobody could call it an aristocratic resort, but it was inexpensive, joyous and wholesome as only the shore can be.

Craved for Luxury Resort. However, to Sally, the blight was that she had a friend who had taken her child to Tahoe—remote, refined and, in spots, very dull. But Tahoe is fashionable and Santa Cruz is not. and Sally kept comparing the two places until her vacation was ruined by fretting and discontent. If Sally had been a child, how simple it would have been to say, "Now, not another word about Tahoe or what Nancy is doing. If I hear any more of this nonsense, Miss, you go straight to bed!"

But Sally isn't a child, so we had to put up with it. She never saw the beauty of the rolling waves or of soldiers and sailors and their girls streaming up and down the boardwalk. She never smiled when everyone was in the glorious salty surf, clinging to life lines, lying wet and breathless on the float. She didn't brighten when we gathered for a delicious hot breakfast in the coffee shop or took hamburgers and buns down on the beach. Not Sally! Nancy was at Tahoe, where everything was elegant and expensive, so there was no pleasure for

Sally anywhere else. Nancy, as it happens, came back with a bad case of hay fever and her little girl was sent off to camp, but that didn't interest Saily. She continued to remark frequently that she wished the holiday was over. Ninety-nine women out of every hundred in the world would have thought her crazy. Some would have wondered why she wasn't struck dead for ingratitude, stupidity and

Had Almost Everything. For if there are 100 good things for a woman of 30 in this world, Sally

ENVY AND DISCONTENT

Foolishly longing for what others have blights the lives of many women. That yearning to "keep up with the Joneses" makes life miserable for women who have all the essentials for happiness. If they could only curb their childish envy of other people who may be a little richer, or more fortunate in some other way, they could be much happier.

Sally was one of these silly, discontented women. She had health, beauty, a loving husband, three children, and a middle-class family income. But these blessings were insufficient for Sally. Her friend Nancy could afford to go to an expensive and exclusive resort, for instance. Sally had to go to an ordinary seaside cottage colony. The only difference, far as pleasure was concerned, was the social ranking of the two places. This distinction, nevertheless, bored into Sally's spirit and spoiled her vacation.

Miss Norris compares the lot of the average American woman with that of the European or Asiatic woman, for whom life is a constant struggle just to maintain existence in a wartorn world. How trivial would most of the American woman's difficulties appear in such a setting!

health, youth, beauty, love, protection and plenty; she had a home, car, water, heat, clothes, food, pleasures, leisure, radio, telephone, gas stove, electric light. Sally had wifehood and motherhood, companionship, responsibility, a keen mind, an active body, bright eyes, good hearing, strong legs and clever fin-

She had, even in this rented cottage, a comfortable bed and good books to read; she had white sheets and fresh blankets; she had a strip of garden, the sight of great trees, the nearness of that eternal miracle the brilliance of the happy crowd of healing, the sea, and that other miracle to which men have turned since the earliest days of Biblical history—the great line of rising dark mountains. But it is ridiculous to attempt to list what she had and it would be tragic to compare it, detail by detail, with the bitter need that millions of women overseas are facing.

These women, frightened, destitute and desperate, have traveled dusty roads looking only for water first, rest and then perhaps a little dark bread and a few boiled turnips or cabbages. They have reassured terrified children, promised them security, shelter, milk and food, only to have the little feet falter, the little hearts break and the children lie down beside the road to rest, not even rating a grave. They have known that their men were gone for ever and with them all the dear old life of home, garden, kitchen, familiar stove and beds and home treasures-never to be found again. One week with them might turn the mirror around for Sally and let her see not what she hasn't but what she has.

Handle Strawberries Carefully Strawberries are scarce, so if you are lucky enough to have some on your menu, handle them with care. Do not wash them until ready to serve. Water clinging to the berries starts unnecessary spoilage. If you hull berries a long time before using, they may soften. If the strawberries must be held over-night, spread them on a flat plate and store uncovered in the refrigerator. Don't hesitate to can the berries, though, even though sugar is scarce. Can without it if necessary,

Handy Chart for Fruit Canning (See Recipes Below)

Fruitful Canning

Of all the canning you can do this season, it is the canning of fruits which will pay the biggest divi dends. Not only are fruits a good source of vitamins and minerals, but they will enable you to save hundreds of points this year as they did last

Since rationing began, fruits have always carried a high ration value, and yet, they are essential and convenient to serve for breakfast, luncheon and dinner. Fruits may be canned with or without sugar, but the fruit will mellow and ripen in the jars much more satisfactorily if a sugar syrup is used. With syrups plentiful, part, usually half, of it is sweetened with a light or dark corn syrup. Honey may be substituted for one-half the sugar, also. It will darken the fruit and give it a somewhat stronger flavor, but it is good. Only fruits that are good in flavor, iniformly ripened and firm in texture should find their way to the jar. Just as it is true of any other canning and preserving, you get only what you put into the can. Canning is designed for preserving the fruit, not for improving poor quality produce.

When large fruits such as peaches, pears or apples are canned, they require peeling and should be placed in brine (2 teaspoons salt to 1 quart of water) to prevent them from turning dark while peeling.

The open kettle method for canning fruit has been a favorite among homemakers for because it gives such attractive results. However, the hot water bath has found & many users because the danger of spoilage is reduced to a minimum and the appearance of the fruit still retains its shape, flavor and texture. On the table, time is also given for processing in the pressure cooker if one is available, but it is not essential for fruit canning as it is for vegetable preserving.

Syrup Making Guide. Thin syrups for fruit canning will be most popular this year because

LYNN SAYS

Fruit Canning Tips: Fruit sometimes discolors at the top of the jar if the fruit is under-ripe or when accurate processing time or temperature is not maintained. Discoloration of the top layers of the fruit is caused by oxidation which means that air has not been expelled from the jar by the heat of processing.

If food is packed too solidly or ars filled to overflowing instead of to within a half inch of the lop, some of the liquid may boil out of the jars during processing.

Canning powders and preservatives are not necessary in the canning procedure.

of the sugar shortage. For this type, use 1 cup sugar to 3 cups water. Heat the sugar and liquid together until sugar is dissolved and syrup is boiling. Or, use ½ cup corn syrup (light or dark) or 1/2 cup honey with 1/2 cup sugar. Medium type syrup is good for most fruits and berries, but it requires a little more sugar. The proportion is 2 cups water to 1 cup sugar, or half corn syrup or honey and half of the amount in sugar

In past years, peaches and pears and some of the other fruits have always been canned with a thick syrup-1 cup water to 1 cup sugar. Don't feel that you cannot can if the sugar doesn't reach around for this: type of syrup. A thin or medium syrup can do the job.

Packing Jars.

Fruits, berries and tomatoes (which are considered a fruit for canning purposes) are delicate in texture and high in juice content. They should be packed solidly in the jar to prevent undue shrinkage and consequent "empty" appearance after processing. Precooking of the fruit is suggested because it shrinks the fruit or berry and enables you to get more in the jar. It takes a little bit longer to can by precooking, but the results are worth the effort.

Jars should be filled to within 1/2 inch of the top. If tightly packed up to this point, fruit and berries will rarely float after processing, and the jars will have a much nicer appearance because they are full of fruit.

Make sure the rims of the jars are not chipped as this will prevent a perfect seal. It's a good idea, too, to wipe the rims after the fruit and syrup are added so that no particles of food or juice stick to them to prevent them from sealing properly. Making a Hot Water Bath.

A water bath canner may be made from a wash boller or any other large deep vessel that has a close fitting cover and is deep enough to permit the jars to stand upright and still have enough water to come an inch or two above the This water should be kept boiling during the entire processing period. It should never be allowed to boil away enough to come less than I inch above the jars. If necessary have a kettle of boiling waler on the range, beside the water bath, to replenish the supply in the

A rack which will hold the jars 1/2 inch from the bottom of the kettle is also essential. The jars should be set wide enough apart to allow for free circulation of water.

How do you count processing time? As soon as the water starts boiling briskly around the filled jars is the rule. The times given 18 600 on the above table are tested and accurate. Set the clock with an alarm, if necessary, and do not try to whittle it down. As soon as the processing period is up, remove the jars and place on several thicknesses of cloth or newspaper in a place free from drafts and allow to cool. Then store in a cool, dry place. The jars should to room temperature as quickly as Released by Western Newspaper Union.

be set far enough apart to allow for free circulation of air to bring them

Postwar Air Freight To Be Within Reach of Every Farmer and Every Community of the Entire Country

Trained Pilots and Plenty Of Improved Planes for Everyday Needs of All

By Walter A. Shead WNU Washington Correspondent.

How about having those spare binder parts dropped in your farm lot by parachute? Or how about calling up and having a flying ambulance deliver you to the nearest hospital for that emergency operation? Or if you are in a hurry for that order you placed, call up and have them deliver it at your gate by helicopter. Ridiculous, you say. Well, not so ridiiculous as you may think, for the amazing progress of air transportation during the war is reflected in these very practical steps for a new horizon for commercial operations as soon as peace permits.

As a matter of fact, the Civil Aeronautics administration in the department of commerce has on file at this moment applications for these and many more new types of civilian air business and these applications afford a stimulating picture of what the plane may soon be doing to advance new progress in American life and manner of liv-

Old and new hands at the flying game, including many veterans still uniform, have formed enterprises now simply waiting for the official green light to serve the public in many ways that would have been thought ridiculous or visionary a few years ago. For instance, some of the applications include:

Flying ambulance and funeral planes . . . armored airships for safe dispatch of currency and other valuables . . . delivery-of new automobiles by huge glider trains . . . tank planes for shipment of gasoline, oil and other liquids . . . bus and taxi service . . . deliveries of medicine, food and of other department store merchandise . . . "flyyourself" systems . . . sightseeing specialists . . . pick-up or delivery by parachute . . . and many others. These projects are in addition to applications for wide extension of service into new territories sought by existing airlines and the entry of others into the fields of feeder, pick-up, general express and cargo business Start New Enterprises. Applicants for certificates for these new enterprises cover the whole range of people who have been stirred to action by faith in the future of air transportation. In the active dockets of the department are the names of companies and individuals with experience in transporting persons and property by air. There are others who have had equally broad background in transportation by steamship, bus, taxicab and truck and there are still others, such as department store owners, who are obviously strong in financial resources, but who have never, perhaps, even delivered their own parcels. Then there are the embryo airline magnates, like the man and his wife who want to start an air freight line between Los Angeles and New York, and for specifications for their fleet, submitted colored cutouts of a Liberator bomber from a Sunday supplement. As a matter of fact, practically all the applicators state in more or less apologetic terms that the applicants have no planes with which to start business. But since practically none will be available until after the war, they are all on an equal basis from that standpoint. The group of applicants who look toward peacetime flying business with the keenest anticipation and toward whom official eyes will look with greatest sympathy are the soldiers and sailors, some already discharged veterans and others ready to take to the air as soon as they are discharged.

Of the 350,000 military pilots which the war has produced, the majority who plan to make aviation their career, see their future as pilots for established airlines. There are, however, many who want to start their own business . . . nothing fancy, understand, maybe just a local feeder line. There has been as yet no breakdown to learn just what percentage of the applications already filed are by servicemen, but the percentage is high. A typical one is the application filed only a few days ago by Lt. James Walker Case of Sutter Creek, Calif., 28year-old navy flier. Lieutenant Case wants to start a business flying persons and property to all parts of California and Nevada in the most suitable available aircraft, just as soon as the navy lets him go. Taxi Rural Service,

There is also the Norsemen Air Transport company, which turns out to be several servicemen who want to continue their war association establishing feeder airlines throughout New England.

Many of these projects may never see the light of day, but there are applications like that of Lt. Col. John C. L. Adams, who before being called back to his regular army job when war came, organized and operated an extensive air service in Panama. He wants to start a sightseeing business with helicopters or light planes, fanning out in various scenic routes from Cristobal and Balboa. Until he can start work sans uniform, his wife, Alberta, is getting things lined up. Then there are also a number of women who plan to start airlines on their own. Some of them, judging from their application papers, have already had successful careers in other lines of business. There is Angeline Harris of Rutherfordton, N. C., who proposes to start a scheduled mail and passenger service linking the smaller towns in North Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia, using either helicopters or light conventional planes. She proposes to land on postoffice roofs or the nearest available vacant lot.

Mrs. Winifred Lucy Shefferly of Detroit, proposes to run a helicopter taxi service in Michigan and Mrs. T. W. Lanier of El Paso, Texas, Drawing shows plane in full flight picking up mail sack. The same film stars on the west coast.

William Edward Hann of Detroit, proposes to begin with transport of mail and later of persons and property on two circulating routes covering hitherto none too accessible places in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona

The proposed air ambulance service, no doubt, had its inspiration from the remarkable operations in evacuation of wounded by the air transport command of the army and navy and the airlines under contract with them. Two applications for this service now on file with the C.A.A. are by long-established undertaking firms, who plan to use the airplanes either as missions of mercy or for burial. One of them is Shannon's of Fort Worth, Texas, who proposes to operate a helicopter ambulance or hearse from their city to or from any points within 600 miles; from within that radius to any place in continental U.S. or from anywhere in the country to within that circle. An exactly similar application is on file from W. C. Croy of Poplar Bluff, Mo.

Julian Bondurant's Armored Motor service of Memphis would enlarge his operation by use of airplanes throughout the south and southwest "on call and demand."

The fabulous supply of our motor ized forces with fuel by airplane in the dash across France and elsewhere, probably influenced H. I. Moul, president of Coastal Tank Lines, Inc., of York, Pa., to file an application to supplement his fleet of 175 trucks with flying tankers. His ships would carry 3,500 gallons of any kind of bulk liquid commodity in compartmentized tanks throughout the United States and to Alaska, Canada and Mexico.

The torrential downpour filled cern proposes to do rush orders on the same job with huge cargo planes, and glider trailers. They seek a certificate to transport automobiles from the middlewest to anywhere in the United States and to bring back general cargo to that area.

Department store deliveries with the helicopter as the favored vehicle is proposed in dozens of applications on file. Perhaps the best known firms include the Hecht Company, Inc., of Washington, D. C., and the William Filene Sons company of Boston. Both would cover the metropolitan area surrounding their cities and would also seek to serve their customers in smaller cities at greater distances.

Mule Track Money

By ELSIE WILLIAMS McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Features.

"ME? FARM? You're crazier than you look, Hamp!" Banty McCann spat contemptuously and hitched up his overall pants. He glared up at Hamp Anderson. "I ain't no farmer. Who wants to mess with a truck c op when the mast is as good as it is this year? Hogs will be fat as butterballs by Thanksgiving, Farm? Phooey!"

Hamp Anderson placed a foot carefully on the porch step, cut a shew of tobacco just as carefully and tucked it into a corner of his mouth before he spoke. "No patriotism, I see," he said quietly, "Here the Gov'mint is hollerin' for vegetables and you want to traipse the woods, Look: Them hogs'll fatten theirselves. While they're doin' that you can work a acre of cukes."

A stout, round-faced woman came out and eased her bulk into a specially reinforced rocker. Hamp Anderson raised a hand to his widebrimmed hat. "Howdy, Aunt Mat. How are you?"

"Fair to middlin', I reckon, Hamp, You-all talkin' cukes? Tom always did like to raise 'em, but he never could eat 'em." hearted Aunt Mat raised a corner of her checked apron to her eyes when she mentioned her late husband. Hamp cocked an eye upward and

"Well-" said Banty again, "I reckon I will. Bring on your seed and your fertilizer, Hamp. Doggone! Me-a farmer!"

Banty took off his shoes, rolled up the legs of his pants and waded in with hoe and shovel. Hamp Anderson rode up to the fence on his big bay mare. "Looks pretty damp," Hamp admitted.

"Damp you say?" Hamp's deliberate understatement angered Ban-ty. "Woods is full o' water, too. Ought to see 'bout my hogs. This whole cuke patch ain't worth a shole!"

"Oh, we'll make out fine," Hamp said easily. "Reckon you'll save two-thirds this field,"

Refinery capacity for the manufacture of 100 octane aviation gasoline just prior to the war amounted to about 46,000 bbl per day. This has been stepped up to a current daily capacity of almost 600,000 bbl. This required 161 refiners to construct 189 major refining installations (some entirely new, but most of them additions to existing most of them additions to existing plants) involving a cost of about $760,000,000 of which $550,000,000 was spent by private industry, and $210,000,000 by the government.
